4. You will notice more than one option available for the same year. Option 1 (name only) is the personal account of the candidate. Any monies that a candidate loaned to their campaign will show up here.

Option 2 is the candidate's campaign account. Campaign account names can have many variations from candidate to candidate ("Friends of", "For Senate", nicknames used, first names omitted, etc.). For this reason, it may be best to begin your search for a record using the candidate's last name only.

Click on the "Annual Totals" link for the campaign account to display yearly summaries.

10. CONTRIBUTIONS RECEIVED SEARCH:

Back to the "Search Reports" screen, you can also look for contributions a candidate may have received from a specific contributor. Best practice for entries is "less is more", but be aware of contributor/recipient variances. You can also toggle between contribution years. The date of the contribution and amount given are listed below the name, and the blue cycle hyperlink will take you to the finance report that details that contribution.
